Welcome Ane And All

I look around this table fine
Guests an' friens in this hame o' mine
I am sae proud o' oor 3 son's
Their wives and their bairns for aw they've done

We left oor Scottish roots behind
When o'er tae Oz we set our minds
Our Clan MacLean was born anew
Despite we were in numbers few

But only 2 from Glasgow came
We're up to 3 to keep the name
As time went by they met their mates
And K, K and S fulfilled their fates

Yer now all part o' the MacLeans in Oz
We keep alive Burns' mighty cause
We had no way to avoid oor fate
Noo we maun say "Giddyay Mate"

We've held this supper for mony a year
Plagiarise ithar folk - Nae fear
We eat an' drink wi' laughs and cheer
Then clear it up for anither year

Noo I digress from what's my job
I am supposed to address the mob
What it is I'm tryin' tae say
Is thanks fer comin here today

We love tae see oor family an' freen's
An even when they bring their weans
These words are meant for all that's here
Be sure our welcome is muckle clear.
